“The Australian Government released its National Career Education Strategy – “Future Ready”. This strategy focuses on school students and is the result of collaboration with states and territories and endorsed by the COAG Education Council. This document is aspirational and the real test will be how it is practically implemented. “ (Source: Gabrielle O’Brien, President, Equity Practitioners in Higher Education Australasia)

As one of the few university websites looking at careers, we hope that On the Job will help provide information, stimulating and thought provoking activities to encourage lateral, critical and creative thinking in your students from Years 5 – 6 through to Year 12.

I recently wrote to Professor Clare Wright, who is highlighted as our Historian, and she was delighted to be profiled on this website. This is great news! However, we need more reviews and for you to pass this newsletter onto other interested people. Anyone interested in receiving this newsletter can email me Frances.Moore@acu.edu.au
